The Director's Note

What a thrill these past months have been. It has been so exciting to have a full-length musical brought back to the Brook Theatre stage again. It has been yet another wild ride to make it through this past year. All of the different challenges that putting a show like this together presents never ceases to amaze me. However, it is the challenges that we overcome which make me so proud of what we produce in the end. We have a fantastic team of dedicated staff and volunteer staff. I am so very grateful for everything they continue to do to help our students succeed. I am so excited for you all to be here with us today and feel all of the joy that this show brings. We have been thrilled to work on this show and are proud to present Mamma Mia! to you today.

The cast, crew and pit students have done such a great job in putting this show together. The amount of time and dedication never ceases to amaze. Thank you also for all of the support our administration, security, and maintenance staff have given to us. We couldn't do this without all that you do.

I would like to thank my amazing production team for their flexibility and dedication to our students. I want to thank our amazing parents who continue to support us without any thought of reward or recognition. Thank you to the students who continue to impress us with your outstanding character, talent, and upbeat attitude. And finally, a special thank you to my wife Allison for being the rock that she is. Handling the many hours home alone with our five boys while I am away doing what I love to do.
